WEDDING

Cairns - Eiting

Seven o'clock the evening of July 12th was the hour chosen by Martha Carol Eiting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Eiting, Calgary, for her marriage to John Kenneth Earle Cairns, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clayton of Calgary, at a ceremony performed in Central United Church by Rev. C. A. Lawson.

The bride was escorted to the flower banked altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Traditional white satin fashioned her floor-length bridal gown which was styled on princess lines with a sweetheart neckline and long-fitted sleeves which tapered to a point over the hands. Her veil of embroidered net cascade to the floor from a sweetheart head-dress and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only jewelry was a ruby pendant, a gift from her mother.

Floor-length frocks in pastel shades of pink and blue, were worn by the four bridal attendants, Mrs. H. Chebry, matron-of-honor and Miss M. Clayton, Miss M. Welsh and Miss L. Schaffer, the trio of bridesmaids. The former complemented her ensemble with a floral headdress of carnations and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas in cascade arrangement, while matching carnations coronets were worn by the bridesmaids, whose bouquets were star arrangements of carnations and sweetpeas.

M. Chibry was groomsman and the guests were ushered by Ben Permann, Dick Welsh and Fred Greal.

A reception was held at the Hotel Bliss following the service when the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by vases of carnations.

Receiving with the bridal party the bride's mother chose navy blue tailored suit with contrasting white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses, while a black and white sheer ensemble was worn by the groom's mother, whose accessories were also white, with yellow roses forming her corsage.

M. Chibry proposed the bridal toast.

When leaving later for their honeymoon trip to California, the bride donned a turquoise blue wool suit with accessories of white.

Upon their return the couple will take up residence at 4127 16th St. S.E., Calgary.

Maybe It Flies By Night

The advent of the flying discs doesn't perturb Stan Schmaltz of Beiseker because he has his own flying mystery. One that he captured and can show you.

The contraption was found this spring in the middle of a field beside the highway. It consists of a fragment of heavy balloon, a string 10 feet long and a translucent paper canister 4 1/2 inches wide and 8 inch long with a wire handle. At the bottom of the paper container is evidence to show there had been a candle of undetermined size which burned itself right out through the bottom.

One end of the string is tied to the mouth of the balloon which is 1 1/2 inches in diameter and the other end is attached to the wire handle of the container.

What is your guess? We have two as to what it is.

Farm Yard Weed Control

Many farm yards provides an unsightly appearance because of weeds growing along the fence lines and around the buildings. Green tansy mustard is probably the chief offender in most far myards. It is a biennial weed requiring two years to complete its life cycle. It is a very difficult weed to control by mowing or pulling and when it is cut off it sends up new seed producing shoots. Like all mustards it produces an abundance of seed.

Crested wheat grass seeded around the farm yard has proven to be an excellent control for this weed. It takes about two years for the grass to become well established and during this time the weeds should be clipped off to prevent seed formation.

If moisture conditions are good the grass can be seeded about the middle of September. If the ground is very dry seeding should be delayed to just before freeze-up. It is essential that seeding be shallow, not deeper than half an inch. An ordinary seed drill can be used for seeding or the seed can be broadcast and then harrowed.

Don't be an ostrich!

Credit For Farmers

A REPORT TABLED RECENTLY in the Canadian House of Commons by Finance Minister Abbott gave some very interesting facts regarding the advantages which farmers have taken of the provisions made by the government in 1946 for loans for farm improvements. These loans may be made through chartered banks for the improvement and development of farms, the loans extending over a period of ten years at an interest rate of five per cent. Finance Minister Abbott's report showed that 13,030 Canadian farmers, including more than 10,000 from the Prairie Provinces obtained loans last year and that the money used for this purpose amounted to $9,880,565. It was also pointed out in the report that no bank had made claims on the government to recover losses, showing that the farmers who had borrowed money had met the terms of their agreements.

Loans Used For Many Purposes

In Alberta 4,798 farmers borrowed money to the amount of $3,388,115, while in Saskatchewan 4,075 loans were made, amounting to $3,140,157. Manitoba farmers made 1,928 loans, totalling $1,397,539. Two-thirds of the money borrowed was used to purchase farm implements and farm trucks, the report showed, and fifty thousand acres of new land were broken by the 1,008 farmers who borrowed money for this purpose. Others obtained loans for foundation and breeding stock and there were 303 farmers who borrowed for this reason, their loans totalling $190,937. It was observed that loans for the construction, repair and alteration of farm buildings were also provided, and that it was expected that the demand for them would be large when construction materials become more plentiful.

Credit Needed In Business

Credit is an important factor in any business, and farming is no exception in this regard. Canadian banks have played a very valuable part in the development of farming communities but the legislation enacted in 1946 was aimed at giving assistance to the average farmer who "in the past had not always been able to obtain bank credit for the purpose of adding improvements to his property." The results of the first year in which the measure was in operation show that a great many farmers made use of the loans, and that there were no cases of default on the part of those who borrowed. Farming is one of our largest and most essential industries but farmers have not always received as much encouragement and support as might be desired. Extension of credit is one means of providing for the improvement and development of farms and should be viewed with favour by all sections of the public.

"Fine, until the parson asked the bride if she'd obey her husband."

"What happened then?"

"What's the most effective agency for the redistribution of wealth?"

The straightforward young woman believed in telling the truth. She married a very sentimental young man.

Canada Gives Twenty Million For Relief Of European People

OTTAWA.—Gift of $20,000,000 by Canada for post-UNRRA relief of the needy peoples of Europe was announced by Prime Minister King. Of the $20,000,000, $5,000,000 will be for the international children's relief fund.

Some $8,000,000 will be spent in purchasing Canadian salted and canned fish for distribution in Europe, this serving the extra purpose of supporting fish prices in Canada. Up to 10,000,000 pounds of salted cod and related species, 40,000 barrels of pickled fish (herring and mackerel), 50,000 boxes of bloaters, 900,000 cases of Pacific canned herring, and 100,000 cases of maritime canned fish, will be purchased for relief needs.

These U.S. Tourists Very Optimistic—Want Barrel Of Fish

SARNIA, Ont.—Canadian customs officials here have seen United States tourists entering Canada with skis, fur coats and snowshoes in July. Recently they were edified by another strange sight when an American car containing two U.S. Army vets and a wooden barrel drove up. "Where can we catch a barrel of fish?" asked the vets. They were waved on barrel and all.

PLANE CARRIERS USED TO HAUL GRAIN TO BRITAIN

MONTREAL.—Small aircraft carriers which served on Atlantic convoy duty during World War II, are carrying Canadian grain to Britain.

Operated by the British ministry of food, five of the British built baby flattops have been put on the grain run to haul wheat from Montreal and Halifax to London and Liverpool.

The carriers are uneconomical, inefficient grain ships, a British food ministry spokesman said here, but they must be used because of the shortage of ships. Loading wheat into the craft takes 25 per cent longer than into a standard grain carrier, although they carry only 290,000 bushels compared with a regular carrier's cargo of 336,000 to 360,000 bushels.

Harvest Wages

The going wage for harvest help is always a question mark to the farmer and laborer alike. For the past two years the Alberta Federation of Agriculture has taken the lead in trying to establish a satisfactory wage scale.

At a recent board of directors' meeting it was agreed that $5.50 for stooking and $6.50 for threshing, based on a 10-hour day, plus board, would be a fair basis. The board realizes that this can only be a recommendation. However, this is a fair wage when board and lodging are included and if all farmers will adopt this basis, harvest wages can be kept on a uniform scale.

1,000 Entries in Two Provinces

Figures from Alberta and Manitoba up to late June show nearly 1,000 entries from the two provinces in this year's $25,000 National Barber Contest.

At June 18 there has been 462 entries received in Alberta as compared with a total of 391 entries in the 1946 contest. The final date for receiving entries in the whole western division is July 15 and it is expected the Alberta list will be considerably increased.

The 1946 entries were 507 from Manitoba, 336 from Saskatchewan and 391 from Alberta.

Poison Ivy

Every year many adults, and especially children, are accidentally poisoned from contact with Poison Ivy. Susceptible persons need only touch a plant to be afflicted with severe skin inflammations and water blisters. Persons who learn to recognize and then to avoid Poison Ivy can save themselves much discomfort and inconvenience.

Description. Poison Ivy is a woody perennial shrub which multiplies by seed and underground rootstocks. In the prairie provinces it is usually not over 12 to 18 inches in height. The leaves of Poison Ivy always consist of three leaflets. The old saying, "Leaflets three, let it be," reminds us of the one sure way to spot Poison Ivy. The leaflets are usually oval in shape. They are smooth, at least on the upper surface, and have serrated (not toothed or notched) edges. The flowers and berries are clustered in the axils of the leaves. The berries are usually creamy-white in colour. A photograph of Poison Ivy has been reproduced on a printed leaflet. Copies may be obtained, free of charge, from Line Elevator grain buyers. School teachers should avail themselves of this opportunity.

Control. Since Poison Ivy is largely confined to the margins of woods, eradication is difficult. However, when found in picnic grounds, summer resorts, and other grounds frequented by people, particularly children, it should be rooted out and burned. If hand pulling is undertaken, rubber boots and gloves should be worn, and all clothing washed after the job is completed. Spraying with sodium chlorate will afford effective control of Poison Ivy, though at least two applications are usually necessary.

Treatment for Poisoning. Many remedies have been suggested to ease the burning and irritation caused by Poison Ivy. The United States Public Health Service recommends a 10 per cent alcoholic solution of tannic acid applied as a lotion. If poisoning is severe, a physician should be consulted before any home remedies are applied.

BREWING INDUSTRY OF ALBERTA

MOST OF US DON'T KNOW

Hardly anyone—not even the publisher—knows how important a newspaper is to a community.

The smaller the town or village, the more important the newspaper is in its economic life. Its news, editorials and feature stories focus the interest of surrounding territory on the place in which the paper is published.

This force and the force of advertisements by local merchants build an ever-widening trade area. This means more business, more money for schools, homes and churches—a bigger and better town.

A town with a newspaper is a town with a future. The better the paper, the brighter the future.

It deserves the support of every business man in that town.

We are trying to make this paper worthy of our town. Your help and suggestions are appreciated.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Sandra's Sanatorium

By A. A. O. GILMOUR

SANDRA MARLOW stood at the kitchen door and gazed in silent horror.

Prince was eating the shrimp! The afternoon had gone badly enough. The Woman's Club, duly assembled at Dr. Dick Marlow's brick cottage, was lukewarm; particularly when she tried—timidly—to discuss Granville's need—a modern sanatorium.

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne put ring covered fingers on Sandra's slender arm. "We're so submerged in other things," she said, half kindly, half impatiently.

Most of the women followed her cue. Sandra subsided in helpless frustration and hoped.

Perhaps with refreshments—hard come by in these days of shortages—they'd be relaxed enough to listen—to consider; perhaps to plan how funds could be raised.

A vitalized sanatorium for Granville! Ever since Dick had come home to practice he had been striving for this dream. She wanted so desperately to help him.

She rushed forward. Prince scurried for shelter beneath the table. Under matted Airedale tangles his brown eyes were forlorn. "Prince!" She shook her head. "How could you? After all these years. After all my training. How could you?"

She snapped her fingers.

The dog buried his nose between his paws and moaned penance. She felt a quick glow of pride at his instant obedience to her signal. But the full impact of loss struck when she looked about her spotless kitchen. There was just nothing to substitute. And without shrimp, her luncheon would be a flat failure.

She looked at the platter again. Prince had gone in for the delicate approach. One giant shrimp tail had curled over the platter's edge. He'd closed his teeth on that. The rest of the platter was untouched.

She'd be sensible, she decided. Dick might frown if he knew, but he was in his downtown office. A conversational buzz droned on in the living room.

Sandra forced herself to an engaging smile—and bore the heaped platter toward them.

When the shrimp pile had dwindled to one or two morsels—and the celery hearts—and the olives disappeared; and when coffee steamed fragrantly in translucent Spode cups Mrs. Brunet-Wayne leaned toward her. "I'm sorry, child," she said kindly, "but we have so many things to do. And we do have a hospital at Lumbarton—only thirty miles away—"

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne sipped coffee gracefully. "Next year, perhaps—besides, Dr. Marlow is still so young..."

Sandra nodded, her face expressionless. Next year perhaps—and all the time it would take the women to get through working on their husbands... She snapped her fingers twice for emphasis, "but, of course, Mrs. Brunet-Wayne!" Before Granville's social leader, Sandra's smile was submissive.

She glanced about her, rose, and made her way to the kitchen. She stopped at the door. Her fingers trembled, grasping at the jamb for support. Her chest constricted in a low, shuddering moan.

When she returned to face the Woman's Club her green eyes were wide—horror stricken in a pale face. "Sandra!" Mrs. Brunet-Wayne's tone was shrill. "What's the matter?"

Sandra stared. "It's Prince!" her voice was strangled. "I-I fed him some shrimp—before—" Her eyes closed. She gestured weakly toward the kitchen. "Look!"

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne sailed past her in full panoply. At the door she came to a full stop.

Prince was a shapeless blob on bright linoleum; his legs stiffly outstretched. His eyes were half shut. His tongue had slipped from his lax jaws. It curved, wetly limp, to the floor.

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne uttered one word. She whispered it with a hiss of quickly drawn breath—"Ptomaine!" Granville's social leader swayed like a staggering sloop.

Sandra dashed for the telephone. While she got her husband's number she issued swift orders. "Warm water. The mustard's in the cupboard, second shelf."

No one answered. The club was numb with sudden shock.

Finally she heard the doctor's quick voice. "Hurry," she told him urgently, "the shrimp!"

"Eh?"

"The shrimp! Prince ate some before I served it to the club. He's—he's stretched out on the floor." Richard Marlow's voice was incisive. "I'll be right out."

Sandra looked about the room. Women were looking at each other—pale, frightened. No one looked in the kitchen. The dog was so well—so still. She hung up, went to the kitchen, gathered the inert dog in her arms and carried him to the back yard.

They waited. No one spoke. Mrs. Brunet-Wayne moaned faintly. Silence fell on the room. Sandra came back, her hand at her waist. She closed her eyes and said, "O—oh!"

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne sobbed hysterically. "If we could only do something. Anything!"

They heard the whine then. Prince, ears cocked, eyes bright, scratched energetically at the kitchen door.

"Why—why," Mrs. Brunet-Wayne gasped, "he's alive!"

Sandra flew to open the door for him. While she put her arms around the ecstatically wiggling Airedale a relieved sigh burst from the entire group.

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne rose to the occasion. "Isn't it strange," she murmured, "how we jump to conclusions. All of us had eaten shrimp. And Sandra had fed some to the dog. Then she saw the dog—" she paused for emphasis—"dead!"

Sandra recovered her composure. "And we all thought we were sick."

Mrs. Brunet-Wayne was not to be stopped. "Suppose we had been—with no facilities for treatment..." She considered this a long moment. "Child," she said sternly, "you should have pressed the sanatorium project more forcefully. I shall handle it myself from now on... Personally!"

The Woman's Club was adjourned when Dr. Marlow arrived. Sandra gave him a brief explanation. Prince lay worshipfully at her feet. "And so," she finished, "with the Woman's Club back of it, darling, I think Granville's going to get a sanatorium." She snapped her fingers, twice.

Obediently, Prince rolled—a shapeless blob. His legs were stiffly outstretched; his eyes half closed. Limply wet, his tongue slid from relaxed jaws to the floor.

AWARDED A BURSARY—Clara Mae Caza, 21, of 309 Ninth Street, Saskatoon, has been awarded a bursary by the Saskatchewan Department of Public Health enabling her to do postgraduate study in mental-hospital dietetics, Jean Oddie, provincial nutritionist, announced recently. The bursary is valued at $300 and travelling expenses. Miss Caza, who graduated from the University of Saskatchewan in household science this year, will leave immediately for study at the Colorado State Hospital, Pueblo, Colo., to begin a 12-month course. The Colorado institution is the only one on this continent offering such a course, Miss Oddie explained. Miss Caza, who won a university scholarship last year, was one of five applicants. The qualifications of all applicants were impressive, Miss Oddie said.

Scotsmen Smile As American Sailors Occupy Edinburgh

EDINBURGH, Scotland—Scotsmen submitted good naturedly to an occupation of Edinburgh by American sailors recently. Ashore from United States warships anchored in the Firth of Forth, the sailors caused traffic jams in famed Princess St. and tramped in sight-seeing crowds through the castles of Old Scottish kings.

The senior officers of the visiting vessels, headed by the battleships Wisconsin and New Jersey, were guests of the lord provost at a luncheon in the city chambers.

The lord provost, John Falconer, called it a historic occasion, and said Scotland gladly acknowledged that she owed much to the United States navy "for invaluable service in our time of need." Replying, Adm. Richard L. Conolly, commander of United States naval forces in Europe and the Mediterranean, said every American sailor felt at home in Scotland.

PRAIRIE CROP PROSPECTS GOOD

OTTAWA. — Prospects are good "for at least an average" crop on the Prairie provinces this year barring development of adverse weather and moisture conditions in the critical period between now and early August, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said in a report covering Prairie conditions.

"Perhaps the most serious hazard the current crop may have to face is the possibility of frost damage," said the report. "The stage of development of nearly all grains is from 10 days to two weeks later than normal and the probability of damage from early frosts is thereby greatly increased."

In Manitoba, growing conditions have been good and crops generally are making "very satisfactory progress." Conditions in southern Saskatchewan are "generally satisfactory", with all crops making good growth while prospects in Alberta continue to be "very favorable."

FARMER'S COLUMN

By R.J.M.

So you are a seed grower? Have you rogued your wheat, oats or barley to remove off-type heads and foreign grain? This should be done at once. Further, your field should be cultivated around the outside to separate it from other grains and give your plot a cared for appearance.

Would you like to belong to The Alberta Seed Growers Association? Apply for membership to J. E. Birdsall, secretary, Administrative Buildings, Edmonton. The above association is holding a series of meetings the first week in August. The two we ought to go to are Brooks Provincial Horticulture Station, August 6th and the Provincial Meeting at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe on August 8th, both at 10.30 a.m. In each case bring your lunch and meet other grain growers. Perhaps we can pick up a few ideas. Now don't stop by reading this article, contact some of your neighbors and make a picnic day of it. This is a splendid opportunity for new and old grain growers.

I still think we should have a seed grain cleaning plant. Not necessarily for registered seed grain but to clean all seed sown in our municipality. The registered grain could be cleaned first and the remainder cleaned during the winter months. I am quite satisfied that we could get 150,000 bushels to clean each season.

Growers of registered or certified grass seeds or forage seed should ship their products to the central cleaning plant of the Seed Growers Association at Camrose. This plant has upwards of $20,000 involved in machinery to clean forage seed. Even with this plant we need a plant to clean commercial seed. Why spend upwards of $2.50 per acre to prepare summer-fallow and then plant dirty seed grain. Perhaps the Agricultural Service Board might become interested in such a plant similar to what the Camrose board are doing. Last spring they cleaned 70,000 bushels of barley for seed.

WEDDING

Hagel -- Perks

St. Mary's Church, Beiseker, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Juliana Magdalena Hagel, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Hagel became the bride of Fredrick William Perks, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Perks, Beiseker.

Rev. A. E. Tennant officiated at the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor length gown of white net over satin with sweetheart neckline, push-up sleeves and full flowing skirt. Her long veil was held in place by a wreath of lilies of the valley and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Margaret Hagel, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of pink sheer with pink chapel veil and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Doreen Perks, sister of the groom, chose a sky blue marquisette gown with corresponding chapel veil and her bouquet was of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Leo Selzler and Joe Hagel.

Miss Anita Schmaltz played the wedding march and Felix Hagel played the wedding music during the mass.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents to which 50 guests were invited. The bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

A wedding dance was held in the Beiseker Community Hall after which Mr. and Mrs. Perks left for a honeymoon trip to Vancouver.
